Week 52 total: 68,900 pesos. Heavy deposits land in the last quarter, which is the holiday season. If that is where your attempts usually die, flip the sheet and run it in reverse instead: start at 2,600 in week 1 while motivation is fresh.

MY RULE FOR A MISSED WEEK
Make it up partially next week, never abandon the count. Write the rule here so the decision is already made:

Your Own Numbers

The stepped 50-peso version is just one shape. Write your own weekly amount, or work backward from a target you actually care about.

OPTION B: WORK BACKWARD FROM A TARGET

MY TARGET WEEKS TO GET THERE WEEKLY AMOUNT (TARGET DIVIDED BY WEEKS)
P _____ P _____

Worked examples: 10,000 pesos in 25 weeks is 400 pesos a week. 20,000 pesos in a year is about 385 pesos a week. If the weekly figure looks impossible against your real budget, the target is the thing to change, not your rent.

IF YOU ALSO HAVE DEBT, THIS SHEET HAS ONE MORE JOB

Challenge money sitting in savings while a Tala loan, a GCredit draw, a BillEase installment, or a card balance costs you 2 to 15 percent a month loses money every month it sits. Once a small starter buffer exists, the weekly deposit belongs at the top of your payoff order instead.
